Andrews Predicts Income Tax To Pass House With 108 Votes

HARRISBURG, June 12 (P)—Speaker H. G. Andrews (D-Cam.) flatly predicted today the classified income tax will pass the House with "at least 108 votes."

It was the first outright forecast made by an administration leader on a specific figure apart from the minimum of 106 votes needed to pass a bill in the House.

"There will be at least 108 votes to pass the bill in the House," he told a newsman. "I think we have them. Then it will be up to the Republicans in the Senate."

Andrews, asked about his reaction to outspoken opposition from more than a dozen of his fellow Democratic House members to the administration's income tax plan, replied:

"I won't discuss individuals. But sometimes this opposition has a way of dissolving when the issue is at hand."

He indicated that most of the opposition stems from assemblymen who may be holding out for some political favor in return for their vote.

Trial June 20

Administration sources are pointing to the week of June 20 for a possible showdown on taxes. Chairman George J. Sarraf (D-Allegheny) said his House Ways and Means Committee may meet then to act on the 411 million dollar classified income tax plan.

The lawmakers return to Harrisburg tomorrow ready to clean up House budget hearings.

Meanwhile, Miles Horst, Republican state chairman, took "secret deals were signed, sealed and delivered behind closed doors" in return for labor's support of the income tax.

Sen. Joseph M. Barr, Democratic state chairman, took the position that labor support has given "tremendous stimulation" to public sentiment behind the tax program.

In another development, Rep. Charles C. Smith, House Republican floor leader, took issue with a gubernatorial statement that the state payroll has been reduced by $1,300,000 a month since Democrats took over in January.

Smith asserted that a department-by-department comparison shows the payroll to be only $195,000 lower. His figure covered departments paid out of the general fund.

First Liner Leaves Port

LONDON, June 12 (P)—The 13,000-ton Media sailed for New York with 150 passengers today—the first Cunard liner on the transatlantic route to leave Liverpool since British seamen launched a wildcat strike 13 days ago.

The first move to break the seamen's strike came as negotiations ground to a standstill over the weekend in two other big strikes—a railway dispute tying up 80 per cent of the nation's trains and a stevedore's union jurisdictional fight crippling six ports.

New Stewards

The Cunard Line, one of Britain's major dollar earners, recruited new stewards to replace the Media strikers, who left the ship in defiance of their own union leaders. The strikers demanded a shorter work week.

Four other big liners are still tied up in Liverpool and another in Southampton.

General Motors Headed For GAW Contract

Agreement Appears To Be Certain

DETROIT, June 12 (P)—General Motors Corp. appeared headed today toward a guaranteed wage settlement patterned after the recent Ford agreement that would avert a Sunday midnight strike by the CIO United Auto Workers Union.

Negotiators broke up an all-night marathon session behind closed doors at 6:30 a.m., EST and resumed after a three-hour recess. A walkout of GM's more than 350,000 workers was due at midnight tonight but there were many indications an agreement would be reached before then. However, the situation was similar to the Ford negotiations last weekend which dragged past a strike deadline so that thousands of workers were already idled before the Ford settlement.

Ruther Battles

As was true in the Ford bargaining, UAW President Walter Ruther carried the bargaining down to the deadline in an effort to shake GM loose for everything that could be won in a contract. The UAW had pledged to try to get a better deal from GM than was negotiated with Ford.

But it was reported the same basic conditions would prevail in any GM pact that were contained in the Ford agreement. This called for a three-year contract with a modified guaranteed wage, plus wage boosts and pension, insurance holiday and vacation gains.

The guaranteed wage plan at Ford provided for a 55-million-dollar fund to provide payments supplementing unemployment compensation benefits so that laid-off workers would get 60 to 65 percent of their pay for a maximum 26 weeks when jobless.

Winning the guaranteed wage at GM as well as Ford would establish the system firmly in the auto industry and set an important precedent for other industries.

The Ford settlement was considerably less than the determined, 47-year old Ruther demanded originally. He insisted on virtually full normal pay for laid-off workers for as long as a year. Instead the Ford settlement set a pattern of about two-thirds normal pay for a half year of unemployment.

Ruther has said the Ford plan gives him a foot in the door which he expects will eventually open up for the full annual pay unemployment guarantee he has set as a goal.

Agreement Soon

Neither Ruther nor Harry W. Anderson, GM vice president for personnel and chief company negotiator, would comment on the trend of the bargaining. But it seemed evident they were getting close to an agreement.

GM reportedly made its guaranteed wage offer to the UAW for the first time late Saturday and negotiators then spent all night debating the issues.

Ruther has pushed the guaranteed wage plan as an antidote for economic depressions. He has argued that if enough employers are saddled with the cost of continuing workers' pay when they are idled because of lack of work, they will see that steady employment is maintained.

The Ford plan, however, fixes a limited employer liability and curtails the amount and duration of supplemental company-financed jobless payments.

Aero Digest Says Russia Has Underwater-To-Surface Missile Powered From Beams Of Light

WASHINGTON, June 12 (P)—An aviation engineering magazine said today Russia reportedly has developed a missile that can be fired from a submarine almost 300 feet underwater and reach surface targets 140 miles away.

The magazine Aero Digest said also "The Russians are gaining rapidly in the race for the ultimate in propulsion, power created by the pressures from beams of light."

The article was written by Erik Bergaust, the magazine's rocket and missile editor, who recently returned from a tour of European scientific centers.

Bergaust said the Russians may be closer to realization of atomic rocket projects and closer to the conquest of space than U.S. scientists because the Communists have put more emphasis on such work.

New Rocket Engine

He reported the Soviet has a liquid fuel rocket engine capable of developing 250,000 pounds thrust and a missile arsenal "as advanced as it is substantial."

As for the submarine weapon,

Radford Throws Cold Water On Talk Of Red's Weakness

WASHINGTON, June 12 (P)—High ranking senators said today Adm. Arthur W. Radford has thrown cold water on expressed hopes that recent "peace" moves by Russia and Red China might indicate internal weakness or troubles in the Communist homelands.

Senators put that interpretation on comments by Radford, recently appointed to a new two-year term as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, in urging congressional approval of draft and military reserve requests.

They cited these statements by Radford last week before the Senate Armed Services Committee. "We can not at this time foresee any deterioration in the stability of the U.S.S.R. nor in its hold over the European satellites in the near future."

Red China Strong

"Communist China is likely to continue vigorous and cohesive, with ever increasing strength."

"The Sino-Soviet tie probably will remain strong the next few years not only for ideological reasons, but also because it furthers the purposes of both parties."

Looking ahead for the indefinite future, the top military spokesman said "The Soviet bloc will continue to maintain and develop formidable armed forces far beyond those required for purely defensive measures."

Although the United States is working for "a program of peace," Radford said, "a small group of men in Moscow and Peking" can touch off "a shooting war, make a decision secretly and make the initial attack with little or no warning."

Some lawmakers have expressed encouragement recently at Russia's agreement to an Austrian peace treaty, her willingness to a heads of state conference, and Communist China's release of four U.S. airmen and request for direct talks on Formosan issues.

Six Persons Die In State

By the Associated Press

SIX PERSONS died in Pennsylvania over the past weekend in violent accidents.

Three were killed in highway accidents, one drowned and two succumbed to coal gas.

U. N. Listed As Unreliable On 'Attacks'

WASHINGTON, June 12 (P)—A Brookings Institution study concluded today that regardless of atomic war terrors, effective control of armaments will never be achieved until Russia and the Western Powers develop international conditions of confidence.

The study also concluded that for the foreseeable future members of the U.N. will have to rely "primarily" on their own armed forces and on regional alliances like the Atlantic treaty "to meet major military attacks, because in the present state of the world they can not rely on the U.N."

The survey was entitled "The U.N. and the Maintenance of International Peace and Security." The Brookings Institution is a private, nonprofit research group. Diplomats around the world are now considering whether and how the U.N. charter should be revised.

U. N. Secondary

The report said that except for its role in the wars against Communism in Greece and in Korea, the U. N. has played a secondary role in the conflict between Russia and the Western Powers.

But the survey praised the U.N.'s general usefulness and said it played a leading part in making the adjustments needed due to the emergence of nationalism in the former colonial areas of Asia and Africa.

The authors also reported that the possibility of U.N. action in some cases may "greatly influence" the policies of nations which would be directly involved in the actions.

CAP Fliers Are Killed

ORCHARD PARK, N. Y., June 12 (P)—Two Civil Air Patrol fliers were killed today when their light training plane crashed and burned in a field in this Erie County village.

The victims were Lt. James A. Ruwoldt, 28, of the Town of Tonawanda, the pilot of the plane, and Lt. Gall A. Bailey, 29, of Buffalo, an observer in the plane.

Death Toll Hits 85 In Greatest Disaster Ever Seen On Race Track; Many Injured

LE MANS, France, June 12 (P)—This mecca of auto racing fans was stunned today — its morgue overflowing with 85 dead and its hospitals filled with injured in the aftermath of the greatest disaster ever seen at a speed track.

The Le Mans 24-hour road race for sports cars ground to a finish under a pall of mourning for the driver and the spectators who perished.

The winner, Britisher Mike Hawthorn in a Jaguar, set a record but his feat was greeted with only mild applause.

No Americans were among the spectators dead. One American was injured — Roy Hunt, a U. S. soldier stationed at an Army hospital in Orleans. There was no information on his condition or his hometown.

Hurdles Wall

The accident occurred yesterday afternoon, 2½ hours after the race started. A flaming German Mercedes-Benz, driven by a Frenchman, hurtled over a retaining wall and into the crowd pressed against the barrier near the main grandstand.

The driver, Pierre Levegh, was among those killed instantly. In sign of mourning, the other Mercedes cars were withdrawn from the race.

The fatal car's gasoline tank had exploded. The front two thirds of the race, landed in the terrified crowd. The rear end stayed near the track and burned.

The spectators beneath the plunging car never had a chance. Some never knew what hit them. Several were decapitated by the shrapnel-like hunks of hot metal. Others were blown to bits by the explosion, burned or trampled to death in the panic that followed.

Black acid smoke rose over the scene.

There was a crowd of a quarter of a million about the closed-off highway circuit south of Le Mans. Where the car went into the throng, spectators were standing 20 deep along the track.

About 15 ambulances and dozens of farm trucks, police cars and volunteered private automobiles began hauling the broken bodies away. French army, police and security men sorted out the bodies.

Rescue operations went quickly and smoothly considering the suddenness of the tragedy. But nearly two hours were required to clear the scene of the last dead and injured, pile up last pieces of clothing and shoes, and pour sand over the last pools of blood.

Race officials announced that despite the tragedy the 24-hour test will be continued next year and ensuing years. But there appeared to be little enthusiasm for the event today.

A quiet and somewhat frightened crowd of about 100,000 filed slowly past the death scene, staring with morbid curiosity. The area had been partially tented over. A picket fence closed off the rest.

There was none of the usual merriment. A dance band which had been ordered to "play all night and play all day" never sounded a note. It packed up last night and left when the leader said:

"This is no place for music." Among the dead were 15 women and at least two small children, both decapitated. The children were carried away quickly by their grief stricken parents.

HARRY LEV, millionaire hat contractor, models a marine cap for the Senate Investigations subcommittee in Washington to demonstrate a foam rubber grommet [circular lining] he designed. He said that the device gave the caps a snappy shape, and brought howls of laughter when he implied that the idea was suggested by the method of artificial sweater girls. He was also confronted with Maj. Eric C. Farnell (top, left) and Col. Louis H. Shirley (top, right), both of whom contradicted Lev's testimony that he was given permission to pack two hats in one box, at a saving to himself of $26,205.

Senator Demands Justice Dept. Act Against 'Nest Of Grafters'

WASHINGTON, June 12 (P)—Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) called today for swift Justice Department action against "the nest of grafters" he said he has exposed in military procurement.

McClellan also announced his Senate Investigation subcommittee plans more public hearings "to determine whether any other agency of the military is contaminated."

The subcommittee yesterday concluded a four-week public inquiry dealing with multimillion dollar spending for uniform caps for the armed forces.

Whether it will be reopened, McClellan said, may depend on whether millionaire Chicago hat manufacturer Harry Lev finally produces an accounting of what he did with $213,924.08 in cash in 1952 and 1953.

Lev swore yesterday he can't remember—"but I'm going to"—how he spent the money, withdrawn from various bank accounts but otherwise unaccounted for. Lev said he will file a statement later about that.

McClellan Scornful

His words drew a scornful blast from McClellan that Lev, one-time poor Polish refugee, has "failed" to disprove accusations he paid a $50,000 bribe to Air Force Capt. Raymond Wool, made payoffs to other military procurement officials, and entertained them lavishly.

Lev swore repeatedly he "definitely never" bribed anyone with as much as "one broken cent." And Wool—now facing court-martial charges based on his association with Lev—has testified no one ever bribed him.

Dulles Makes Plea

Demands Heard For Limiting Military Aid

WASHINGTON, June 12 (P)—Some Congress leaders sounded new expressions of concern today over the recent Soviet-Yugoslav talks, while a move advanced to tie strings to U.S. aid for Yugoslavia.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California credited Russia with "considerable success" in the recent Belgrade meeting of Marshal Tito and Kremlin leaders.

He called for "careful reappraisal" of military aid to Tito's government.

In the House Foreign Affairs Committee, the broad agreement reached at Belgrade on some European and Asian policies has increased demands for limiting military help to Yugoslavia. Sentiment also has grown for attaching conditions to economic aid.

Some members declared the administration so far has failed to forestall this move to place conditions on the $½-billion-dollar foreign aid budget for the year beginning July 1. The Senate has authorized the administration's aid program without major change—but without yet actually appropriating the money to carry it out.

Radford Testimony

The House committee resumes its consideration of the authorization measure tomorrow with secret and public testimony from Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. It hears James W. Riddleberger, U. S. ambassador to Belgrade, in a closed session Tuesday.

Rep. Morano (R-Conn.) said he will sponsor an amendment in the committee which in effect would require President Eisenhower himself to justify to Congress any further military aid to Yugoslavia.

Morano said his amendment would exclude specific military assistance to Yugoslavia next year but would permit the President to continue this help if he decides it is "essential and necessary to the security of the United States."

The extent of military aid, as contrasted with economic, listed for each country has been kept secret. Under Morano's proposal, if the President chose to send military assistance to Yugoslavia, he would be required to report his reasons to Congress which, presumably, could override them through further legislation.

U. S. Being 'Used'

"It is my firm belief," Morano said in a statement, "that Yugoslavia is just as Communist as it ever has been, despite U.S. foreign aid, and is simply using the United States for its own selfish interests. 'So far there is no reasonable assurance Yugoslavia is even considering fighting on the side of the free world should we be attacked by the forces of international communism.'"

Besides an unspecified portion of global military funds, Yugoslavia is earmarked for 40½ million dollars in economic help.

Knowland said that "despite the sugar-coating (the Belgrade) conference got here in the United States, it was a considerable success for Russia."

The Senate GOP leader said in a television interview (ABC-Celebrity Parade) the Soviet Union will try to win by hard bargaining at the coming Big Four conference what it hasn't been able to gain "by its military power."

Demands Unchanged

Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio) and Adair (R-Ind.) said the demand from some foreign affairs committees for curbs on Yugoslav aid has been unchanged by previous testimony from administration spokesmen, including Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme NATO commander in Europe.

GOP Drive To Reenact All But Sales Tax

HARRISBURG, June 12 (P)—Re-enactment of all state taxes except the one per cent sales tax was urged by a group of Republican county chairmen and vice chairmen.

A letter was made public yesterday by Henry Lark, GOP chairman of Northumberland County, in which some 23 officials were reported to have endorsed the plan.

The letter asked House Republicans to introduce and the Senate Republicans to support repackage of every current tax except the sales levy. The proposal did not include Gov. Leader's 411 million dollar classified income tax program.

Mrs. Raymond Price Has Imposing Array Of Services To Community

By Bobby Westbrook
EVEN IN THE rain, the garden at the Raymond Price home at Mountainhome was blazing with color. Mrs. Price, opening the door to the Daily Record interviewer, accepted the praise for the results of her handwork graciously, but quickly turned the conversation to the trouble she was having with dogwood.

The dogwood in question was in an oil painting she was working on, and she wasn't satisfied with it, quite. It was one of three paintings she is preparing for the Socotomist Club to choose from for one of their projects. To the interviewer, the dogwood, glowing in the dark afternoon, seemed perfect.

The whole setting was perfect for the questions that had to be asked. The garden had the day before supplied a wealth of cut flowers to brighten the homes of friends who were celebrating an occasion and of shut-ins who might otherwise find the day dull. The house showed evidence of a multiplicity of family interests: the paintings, the fashion drawings, the hi-fidelity set, sports and dogs. Above all, there was Mrs. Price herself with her ability to the turn talk from herself to things of common interest, with the facility with which she drew others into sharing her enthusiasms and the quick interest she took in theirs. All of it together explained in part why all of the organizations in Barrett Township have selected Mrs. Raymond Price to receive the annual Barrett Appreciation Award. It will be presented Wednesday night, June 15, at a dinner at Onawa Lodge.

Grateful For Award
How does Mrs. Price feel about the award? That was the question that finally got asked after a conversation that ranged far and wide, particularly far from the topic of herself.

"Grateful, of course," she said, but also "uncomfortable. You shouldn't be given credit for doing what you want to do, and have enjoyed doing."

Uncomfortable or not, she will have to listen to an imposing list of activities for community welfare which sponsors of the Appreciation Award have drawn up.

Violet Hallett Price is the daughter of Ulysses and Letitia Van Vorst Hallett. They were living in Waldwick, N. J., with two little boys when her father was killed in a train wreck on Christmas, 1896. She was born the following March 14 at her paternal grandfather's farm at Polkville, N. J.

Her mother was a direct descendant of Cornelius Van Vorst, who came into New Amsterdam with the first settlers. Records show that he purchased a cow from Peter Huyssant and crossed the Hudson to become the founder of Pavia, now called Jersey City. The first baby born in the settlement was Letitia Van Vorst for whom her mother was named.

Cornelius Van Vorst, the grandfather at whose home she was born, bought a farm on the top of the Poconos at Pocono Lake and the family moved there when she was a small child. There she grew up attending the school at Blakeslee Corners. She has in her possession an agreement written in long hand by Jay Gould for Pratt and Gould for timber taken from the track her family owned.

This early family interest in history later bore fruit in the historical book she has written. In 1948, Christopher Publishing House of Boston published her book on "The Price Family of Barrett Township" which is today to be found in the state libraries of 23 states and in Hawaii, and which also put her name in "Who's Who" in Genealogy.

Hungry Hill Monument
Her interest in history also led directly to the marking of the Hungry Hill encampment of General Sullivan's march through this section. A small marker and fence marked the historic spot but fence was crumbling and even the grave was sliding down hill. She worked for years to have it properly marked and preserved.

But to return to the child growing up in the Poconos. At the age of 11 she joined the Methodist Church at Blakeslee. Later she was graduated from Pocono Lake High School at the time when the late Rev. Ralph Feltham was principal. She was also graduated from Stroudsburg High School in the class of 1916 and went to Polytechnic Institute at Gilbert for one term. There she took the Provisional Teacher's exam and started to teach in Pocono Lake in the Fall of 1916.

During that winter, they organized the first Girl Scout Troop in Monroe County. For three years, she was captain of the group which was very active until she left that section. They sold Liberty bonds during the First World War, gave benefits, outfitted all of the service men from that area with trench kits and as captain she was awarded a World War Service Medal from the people of Monroe County for the services which the troop rendered during World War I.

It was not just to the service men and the members of her Girl Scout troop that the interest of the young teacher reached. At that time there were few automobiles in use, and the only source of local employment was with the Mountain Ice Company, which of course functioned only in the winter. This left many of the inhabitants without work much of the time.

Children's Needs
Seeing the needs of the children she was teaching, her interest was responsible for the Children's Aid Society of Pennsylvania making their first journey into this region to assist in the placing of children in need of homes. She became such a vital part of the community, that when she was offered a promotion to a school outside of the Pocono Lake area, the members of the Friends Service Committee of Pocono Lake Preserve persuaded her to give up teaching and devote her full time to social work in that area.

In preparation, she worked in New York through the Russell Sage Foundation and the New York School of Social Science, and returned to Pocono Lake where she remained until her marriage.

She was married on March 26, 1921, to Raymond Price and came to Barrett Township to live. She brought with her her interest in and knowledge of social service and helped to organize the well-baby clinic.

"Until," she said with a twinkle, "I started a baby clinic of my own."

Jane Townsend Price, Doris Price Fellows, Raymond Price Jr., and Richard are their children. Even with the house full of children and their friends, and while sharing fully in their activities, Mrs. Price found time for community service.

So enthusiastic did Mrs. Price become in speaking of the new project and its possibilities, that it was impossible to get the conversation back to her as a person. At any rate, other people will be doing the talking at the Appreciation Award dinner, and while Mrs. Price may dismiss her service to the community as unworthy of notice, the people of Barrett Township are not.

in the Monroe County Federation of Woman's Clubs.

Hospital Director
She is still serving on the board of directors of the General Hospital of Monroe County where she has been active for many years. She has spearheaded many of the Red Cross drives and other welfare drives in Barrett.

In the midst of all that, Mrs. Price has lately taken up painting, and very successfully, too, with several of her paintings receiving recognition in the Monroe County Art Shows and shows in New York and Palm Beach.

According to the testimony of those who know, Mrs. Price's personal service has outstripped even her activity in organized welfare. They tell how she is sharing her own interest and satisfaction in painting with shut-ins, painting right along with them. If there's sickness in a house, they find that Mrs. Price has already been there with meals and baths and care. If there's loneliness they find she has lightened it with a visit.

All this she dismisses with a brisk, "This is all a personal matter. You don't take credit for what you do for your friends."

However, the Socotomist International of Stroudsburg is going to make her take credit for a new project which they are starting, in addition to their nurse scholarship. They have named Mrs. Price chairman of the Committee of New Horizons. Under her direction, they hope to offer personal service to the many older people of the county, who need, not so much food and shelter, but companionship and an interest in something outside of their own idle and lonely days.

Project For Aged

Through her, the club hopes to establish contact with these elderly people. Their ideal is personal contact, whether it may be just lending a listening ear, or perhaps taking them for an occasional outing with lunch in town. It may involve teaching them a new skill to fill the hours. It may be reading with them or doing their personal shopping.

So enthusiastic did Mrs. Price become in speaking of the new project and its possibilities, that it was impossible to get the conversation back to her as a person.

At any rate, other people will be doing the talking at the Appreciation Award dinner, and while Mrs. Price may dismiss her service to the community as unworthy of notice, the people of Barrett Township are not.

Awards Given To Students Of School

NEWFOUNDLAND—Awards for excellence in scholarship and extra-curricular activities were presented to students of the Greene-Dreher-Sterling Joint school at the final assembly in the high school auditorium here yesterday.

Recognition was given to six graders who finished in the top 20 percent in the recent Pennco tests given in Wayne County and to members of the high school who were outstanding in music, athletics, cheer-leading and other activities.

Richard McLain, elementary school principal, made the Pennco awards to Jean Mary Burdick, Thomas Duty, Ann Lee Cramer and Mary Ann Pruss. The test, which covers all subjects in the course of study, is given county-wide as a basis for promotion to junior high school.

The American Legion awards, given annually by local Post No. 529 to the boy and girl of the ninth grade exhibiting fine traits of citizenship, went to Stephen Luckey and Barbara Urdel. Mills Akers, commander of the post, made the presentation.

Henry Arneberg, physical education instructor, presented the athletic and cheerleading awards. Listing may be found on today's sport page.

The Greene-Dreher Woman's club music awards, made to members of the graduating class who have contributed substantially to the success of the school's musical organizations, were presented by John Strupewski, music instructor. They were given to Charlotte Robacker, Lorraine Grimm, Carol Hibbs, Arthur Frey, Larry McLain and Terence Mulrooney.

Strupewski also presented certificates of merit in music to the above and to Joan Blank and Virginia Uhl.

Peterson Knows His Distances

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—Val Peterson, federal civil defense administrator, is looking for a house—one not too close to the capital.

He told a congressional committee he thinks 14 miles away is the proper distance.

This is the way he arrived at the 14-mile figure: five miles to get out of the area of total destruction if a bomb is dropped on the capital; six more miles to get in the zone of what he called moderate damage; and the final three miles to allow for error in hitting the target.

Citizens Asked To Take Part In C. D. Alert

HARRISBURG, June 10 (AP)—Gov. Leader yesterday urged the active participation of every Pennsylvanian in Wednesday's national Civil Defense test.

"Next week's test will throw public focus on the strong and weak links in our present defenses," he said in a statement.

"This is not just a matter of concern for city dwellers but for every Pennsylvanian interested in his own and his country's survival."

"Every Pennsylvanian county, city, borough, town and township vigorously must press forward a double-barreled home defense program. Every community must be prepared not only to take care of itself insofar as humanly possible but also to lend assistance to other areas requiring assistance from outside sources."

Public Indifference

The governor declared that he was "very much distressed" at what he called widespread public indifference and lack of preparation for Civil Defense in some areas of the state.

But he added, "I am both surprised and pleased to learn of the preparations already made in many of our communities, particularly in some of the less densely populated support areas."

He called Pennsylvania "a key target for all sorts of enemy attack." And he named Philadelphia and Pittsburgh metropolitan areas as "prime points" for all-out assault.

"Many other of our cities are likely marks for specialized attacks aimed at vital industries," he added.

"... People no longer can afford the perilous luxury of paying no heed to the fact that we are now wide open to atomic attack. Neither can they continue idly to rest on the false assumption that hydrogen warfare is a national problem to be handled solely by authorities in Washington."

Two Former Classmates Are Reunited In Same Army Unit

TWO REGIONAL residents who graduated from Smithfield School and later East Stroudsburg High School together had their long boyhood association sharply terminated in 1954 when they were inducted into the Army. Recently, fate brought them together again in the same Army unit.

They are Pfc. Earl Burch, Second St., Stroudsburg, and Pfc. James A. Kunkle, East Stroudsburg R.D.3.

Burch entered the service in May, 1954 and Kunkle in June, the same year. While each was aware the other had been in service, they did not meet until September, 1954, when Burch was enrolled in armor training and Kunkle in clerk-typist school at Fort Knox.

After that they lost complete contact with each other until May 29, 1955, when Kunkle was transferred to the 6th Tank Battalion in which Burch has been assigned since November, 1954.

Burch is now a driver of a medium tank and Kunkle a gunner. They would appreciate mail from friends here to ease the days they pass impatiently until the time they return home. Their addresses:

Pfc. Earl Burch, US 52357186, "A" Co. 6th Tank Bn, APO 24, San Francisco, Cal.
Pfc. James A. Kunkle, US 52357944, "A" Co. 6th Tank Bn, APO 24, San Francisco, Cal.

Citizens, Business, Industry Alerted For CD's Test Wednesday

Test Due To Start 2:05, End At 2:15

MONROE COUNTY Civil Defense officials called during the week-end for complete cooperation of citizens, business and industry in the important nation, and statewide Civil Defense test—"Operation Alert 1955"—to be held Wednesday.

Judge Fred W. Davis, county coordinator, said the signal mobilizing Civil Defense personnel—not heard publicly—will be flashed at 12:05 p. m. The Red signal—publicly audible—will be sounded at 2:05 p. m. and the White, or all clear signal, will be heard at 2:15 p. m.

Primary purpose of the exercise will be (a) to test the over-all effectiveness of state and local attack warning systems and devices (b) to test county and local plans for emergency mobilization and operations; and (c) to provide further opportunity for public practice of self-protection measures.

Color Signals

The routine color signals will be used: Yellow, basically a mobilization signal, will be used in industrial plants, hospitals and similar organizations as a guide in emergency operational procedures. "Yellow" does not call for general action on the part of the public at large. It is a warning for CD personnel to assemble at their stations.

"Red"—upon receipt of Red on the bell-and-lights system or by telephone relay, a standard "Red" warning signal will publicly be sounded on local sirens, horns, or whistles. This signal is composed of a three-minute "warbling" of sirens or a three-minute series of short blasts on horns and whistles, or a combination of the two.

At this time traffic will be halted and the public will take cover.

"White" is the all-clear and normal activity may resume.

Rules Tested

Civil Defense officials here said the following rules will prevail:

In a vehicle—all public, private and commercial vehicles except those moving on the Pennsylvania turnpike shall be pulled to the curb or off the highway and parked in such a manner that traffic is not obstructed. Shut off motor and leave parking lights turned on. Occupants shall get out and take cover if handy; otherwise crouch or lie down in vehicle. Truck drivers may remain in their trucks to protect contents.

Emergency Calls—For emergency calls summon the nearest state or borough police for an emergency escort.

Buses and Taxis—Buses and taxis have assured cooperation to comply with the alert.

Gasoline Stations—Gasoline station owners and other outdoor non-manufacturing operations are asked to suspend business during the alert and they and customers are asked to take cover. This applies to construction projects—except public utilities.

Air Traffic—Aircraft actually in the air during "Condition Red" will continue; other aircraft will not take off during "Red".

Theater Owners—Theater owners may continue operation during the alert. Programs should be interrupted to announce by slides or otherwise, that the test is in progress.

Exit from buildings—No person will be expected to leave a building or other place of cover and go outdoors during the alert.

At Home—Open flames should be extinguished and shades drawn to guard against flying glass. The radio should be kept on WVPO. Everyone should proceed to a previously selected shelter in the house.

On The Street—A person should seek shelter immediately in the nearest substantial building. Enter the building. Do not stand in entrances or doorways.

At Work—Owners and operators of stores, hotels, and other indoor places of business will be expected to carry out the plans developed for their establishments.

At School—Schools, if in operation at this time—should follow the regularly prescribed air raid drill.

In Transit—Rail, military, or scheduled air traffic will not be disrupted during the test.

Big Gas Well Struck—RENOVO, Pa., June 12 (AP)—A gigantic natural gas well, possibly close to the largest ever brought in east of the Mississippi, was brought in today in the new Greenfield field.

Five Men Held For Hearing After Car Burns In Crash

FIVE PHILADELPHIA men will appear before Mount Pocono Justice of Peace Emma Mervin today for a hearing on disorderly conduct charges growing out of an auto accident in which a car burned early yesterday morning.

Truck, Car Damaged In Collision

AN ESTIMATED $500 damage was caused to a car and a truck in a collision on Route 209 seven miles east of East Stroudsburg Saturday at 6:15 p.m.

Stroudsburg State police said the accident occurred when a car operated by Wilmot White, 65 of East Stroudsburg RD 1, ran off the right side of the road. As White brought the car back on the highway, it veered to the left hitting a truck driven by Forrest Marsh, 25 of East Stroudsburg RD 2, police said.

No one was injured. Damage to the car was estimated at $400; to the truck at $100, police reported. White was going west on Route 209; Marsh was traveling east.

Huge Narcotics Store Reported

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—Federal authorities reported today that a narcotics syndicate has a billion dollars worth of cocaine stored in Mexico for smuggling into the United States.

The report came with the disclosure that officers have already seized one shipment, worth $2,500,000 and tabbed the biggest ever netted in this country.

Federal authorities in Brooklyn said the shipment was found with the arrest of two messengers who brought the cocaine to New York City from Mexico.

It was indicated also that officials know the identity of the syndicate's chief, identified only as a "Senior X," and are on the lookout for him.

Operations of the vast dope enterprise were made public today when a sealed indictment, charging the two messengers with various federal narcotics law violations, was opened in Brooklyn federal court.

Man 'Fair' After Hit By Two Vehicles

SAMUEL EDWARD Davis, 50, a Scranton man employed at a Pocono resort, was in "fair" condition last night at General Hospital after he was apparently hit by two trucks—one unknown and the other identified.

Mount Pocono State police said Davis suffered a fractured right foot, foot cuts, multiple bruises and cuts on the left forearm. The second part of the hit-and-run accident occurred at about 3:20 a. m. Saturday, police said, on Route 611 near Swiftwater, two miles south of Mount Pocono.

Police gave these details: At about 3:05 a. m. Robert Gerrity, 28, of Scranton, a sailor stationed at Willow Grove Naval Air Station near Philadelphia, was traveling on Route 611.

Gerrity was going toward Mount Pocono. Davis was lying in the Southbound lane, police said. Gerrity stopped his car, went across the road and tried to move the resort worker's body off the highway, police said, but could not move the man because of his weight.

Moves Body

Gerrity succeeded in pulling the man's body partly across the highway, police said he told them. Then he went back to his car, drove to a crossing-place in the concrete divider in the four-lane highway, turned around and started back toward the man to park his car again, police said.

In turning around, Gerrity was forced to pull in behind a truck driven by Morgan Watkins, 50, of Scranton. Watkins saw Davis lying in the road, swerved to avoid hitting him, but in so doing, the rear wheels of his tractor-trailer passed over Davis' right leg, police said.

This occurred at about 3:20 a. m., police said. They said Davis had probably been hit by a vehicle earlier—probably five minutes before Gerrity saw him lying on the highway.

Davis was taken to General Hospital in the hospital ambulance. Investigation of the accident is being continued. The earlier incident, when Davis was apparently first struck, will be considered a technical hit-and-run troopers said. Interviewed in the hospital, Davis told troopers he had been hit by "a truck" but could not offer positive identification of the vehicle, police said.

Louis Mondell Honored On Eve Of European Trip

THE STROUDSBURG Chess Club meeting Thursday night at the office of President John Price bade farewell to a veteran member, Louis Mondell, of East Stroudsburg, who left yesterday for a visit to France and Switzerland, and welcomed a new one, Sydney Kushner, son of Joseph Kushner, the club star.

Mondell expects to return late in the summer. He is retired and plans to visit his old home in Basle, Switzerland, which is in one of the French cantons. He said he hopes to spend a night in the attic room where he slept as a working boy at nine. He is a native of New Jersey, but his parents, French, went back to Europe when he was only two years of age. They died in his early boyhood and he lived and worked with relatives in the early 1900's. Returning to this country, he enlisted in the United States Marines and is chairman of a Marine organization. He flew yesterday from New York.

Air Defense Inspector Writes Words Of Praise For Harvey Boyer And Kunkletown GOC Post

T/Sgt. HARVEY S. Miller, one of the inspectors out of the Harrisburg Air Defense Filter Center, has written an article about the Kunkletown Ground Defense Corps observation post, citing it as an example of "what makes America great."

Contained in the news letter out of the Harrisburg Filter Center, it is entitled Quebec Lima, 35, Black, the designation of the Kunkletown post. Sgt. Miller's report on the post follows:

Closely-Knit Group

"Deep in the heart of Monroe County, in the town of Kunkletown, known phonetically as Quebec Lima 35 Black, is an observation post, one of note that I'd like to speak of other than by letters and digits called to a filter center.

"This is the home of Mr. Harvey L. Boyer, post supervisor, and his closely-knit group of friends who have a little woodworking and furniture repair shop. Here, with his friends—one a retired merchant seaman, a minister and an ex-RAF officer, with numerous others of various walks of life—he shares a few hours daily making new out of old. Old and broken murals and paintings are restored and antiques repaired into works of art attesting to their skill and handicraft.

"These fine articles are repaired by all with an eye to the call-phers and an ear alert for the drone of a plane, or the whoosh of a jet. Here is a visit always looked forward to with anticipation, for upon entering the posts there are spent countless moments of good conversation and ready wit on the part of Mr. Boyer and this great group of observers.

Proud Of Efficiency

"Like man of his age, Mr. Boyer, retired, spends much of his time keeping current on the Air Force, operationally, and can offer sage advice on advancement of new techniques.

"The field representatives and the Harrisburg Air Defense Filter Center are proud of the efficiency from this post and can say without reservation—"there is what makes America great."

"To Mr. Boyer and his buddies we of the Filter Center are looking forward to more visits to your fine Observation Post."

Man, Woman 'Fair' After Rt. 611 Crash

A BRONX, N. Y. man and woman were in "fair" condition last night at General Hospital.

They are being treated for injuries sustained in an auto-truck wreck a mile north of Bartonsville on Route 611 at 5:25 p. m. Saturday. Stroudsburg State police investigated the accident, with Trooper Peter Walsh in charge.

According to the police report the injured were Vincent Gullotti, 28, driver of the car and Frances Muccio, 21, a passenger in his auto. The accident occurred when Gullotti's car went into a skid, then spun across the highway into the path of a truck, police said.

Drove Off Road

The light truck was operated by Jack Keesler, 38 of Binghamton, N. Y. Police said Keesler drove his truck off the road in an effort to avoid hitting the car, but the auto swung around and smashed into the truck.

Total damages were estimated at about $3,000—$1,500 to each of the two vehicles. Both Gullotti and Miss Muccio suffered broken collarbones, multiple body bruises and cuts, police said. They were taken to General Hospital in the hospital ambulance. The highway was wet and it was raining at the time of the wreck.

$475 Damages Results From Two Car Crash

AN ESTIMATED $475 damages was caused to two cars in a collision at the corner of Fourth and Main Sts. last night at 7:50 p. m. Stroudsburg borough police said the accident occurred when a car driven by Joseph R. Check, 34 of Wilkes-Barre, now working as a resort employee here, pulled out of Fourth St. onto Main and ran into the second car.

Driver of the second car was Peter J. Lorenzet, 16 of 60 Lackawanna Ave., East Stroudsburg. Damage to Lorenzet's vehicle was estimated at $350 and at about $125 to Check's car.

Lorenzet was driving east on Main at the time of the accident. The entire left side of his car was damaged, police said. The investigation of the accident is being continued, police reported.

Ground-Soaking Rains Bring Relief To Pocono Mountains

A GROUND-SOAKING RAIN fell on Monroe County over the week-end.

It was the first prolonged rainfall of the Spring season. Last night, as thunderclouds rolled across the mountains, more rain was falling but there appeared to be a possibility of hail storms in the area.

Some light, small hailstones fell in Monroe County Saturday night and early Sunday morning. The hailstorm lasted only a few minutes and caused no damage, however.

For county gardeners and farmers, the weekend rain was a wet blessing in a dry season. Cloudy weather during the past two weeks had produced nothing but damp spirits and wilted crops in most areas of the county.

Rain In Mountains

At High Point, Mount Pocono, official weather instruments measured 1.57 inches of rain during the 24-hour period from 7 a.m. Saturday to 7 a.m. yesterday.

Weather observer Harry Greene said that last night's swift thunderstorm produced another .46 of an inch of rain in that area. The fall was estimated to be about the same in Stroudsburg and other areas of the county.

Rain-soaked, wet highways caused several accidents in the area. Only one of these caused serious injury. This occurred Saturday near Bartonsville when two Bronx, N. Y. residents were injured when their car skidded and swerved into a truck.

Strikers Hit British Colony At Singapore

SINGAPORE, June 12 (AP)—Police acting under emergency regulations jailed five Chinese trade union leaders today as the government moved to quell a strike wave threatening to paralyze this British colony's economy.

But the move touched off a fresh strike, halting operation of 10 bus lines. A bus strike last month sparked Singapore's worst industrial strife in years. Riots then caused four deaths. Among the victims was Gene D. Symonds, United Press correspondent. Authorities say the strikes are Communist inspired and directed.

Russell Imbt Jr., exalted ruler of the lodge will have charge of the program and will introduce Mr. Flory.

Flags and ice cream will be given to the children after the ceremonies. Jack Pine is chairman of the Flag Day ceremony.

Bike Rider Hit By Car

A 16-YEAR-OLD Saylorsburg RD boy, Clark Bartholomew, was slightly injured Friday when his bicycle was struck by a passing motorist on Route 115.

Stroudsburg State police said the boy suffered a scalp cut and bruises of the left cheek and thigh. He was treated at home, they said. Driver of the car was Ann Bryant, 49 of Luzerne. Time of the accident was 6:15 p. m. Friday, police said.

$400 Damages In Rt. 6 Crash

MILFORD State police at the sub-station here investigated a two-car accident on Route 6 one mile south of Matamoras at 7:45 last night.

No one was injured in the crash. Damages totaled $400. The two cars were driven by Leonard Pullen, 37 of Belle Meade, N. J. and L. L. Cobb, 62 of Matamoras. Police said Cobb made a left turn off the three-lane highway and hit Pullen's car.

CD Police Summoned

STROUDSBURG—All Civil Defense auxiliary police members are requested to meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in municipal building when equipment will be issued for "Operation Alert", nation-wide CD exercise to be held Wednesday.

On that exercise the "fan-out" system will be used and every member of the force is urged by CD officials to do his or her part.

Final plans will be made at this meeting for assisting the police in handling the Four County Firemen's Parade on June 18. Major William Plummer, county police coordinator; Chief James F. McConnell and Archie Rundle co-chairman of the firemen's convention committee will outline the parade problem for auxiliary police.

Truckers Prosper

WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—The American Trucking Assn. announced trucks carried 12.2 per cent more interstate freight during the first three months of 1955 than in the comparable period a year ago.

'The Gentle Rain From Heaven' Cause For Thankfulness In Pocono Mountains Region

"The gentle rain from Heaven" about which Mr. Shakespeare wrote so appreciatively as he compared the quality of mercy to it, was certainly thrice blessed by Monroe Counties these past few days, as it continued to shower down with sufficient volume to rescue crops, vegetable and flower gardens from an arid fate.

Reservoirs and wells have filled up again, the Pocono Mountains have been rescued from the ever-present danger of forest fires, and all in all the heaviest precipitation since 1953 has brought satisfied smiles to the faces of just about everyone.

Of course there are the exceptions, those who had planned some sort of holiday involving the out-of-doors, and the baseball athletes are not content because of the interference with their games, but in general, the blessed recovery of our life-giving crops is something for which we are all mighty thankful.

Whatever the coming week may bring us, be the skies cloudy or clear, we can look back on the passing week as one in which the threat of lost crops and timber fires was removed, and we are properly appreciative.

The gentle rain can be annoying when it hangs on too long, but coming after weeks of no precipitation one can welcome it happily.

Especially when the U. S. Weather Bureau tells us there is no evidence that atomic explosions have any effect on our weather.

Party Line Tie-Ups By Greedy Telephone Users Will Be Punished Under New Measure

A simple little piece of legislation, that opponents say never can be enforced, is now on Governor Leader's desk.

It passed the House with only two dissenting votes. It passed the Senate unanimously.

It makes possible fines up to $300, or 30 days in prison, or both, for telephone hogs. They're the people who tie up a party phone line and refuse to give way, even in the face of an emergency appeal, a cry for help.

Can't be enforced? Stuff and Nonsense. New York State has had the same law for less than a year.

One woman was arrested and had to stand trial when she refused to give up the phone line, so help could be summoned to fight a fire. Other telephone hogs will think twice now in New York State, when an emergency appeal interrupts their windy conversations.

As far as that goes, there will be benefit from the law, just because it is on the books. Possible fines of $300 and 30 days in jail can be quite a deterrent in themselves without anyone being arrested.

Rep. George C. Magee Jr. (R-Crawford), who with Rep. Albert E. Strauss (R-Columbia) sponsored this bill, cited the death of a young girl in his county some months ago, just because a telephone hog wouldn't give way for an emergency call.

Who knows what other lives may be saved because of this new preventative legislation?

Sign this bill, Governor Leader. No one can accuse you of dialing the wrong number if you do.

And the first time, and every time, telephone hogs refuse to give way for an emergency call, let the proper authorities throw the book at them.

George Sokolsky Says...

How Much More Can Be Put On Autos To Meet Cost Of Reuther's Wage Victory?

To many, it is significant that the Ford-Reuther agreement was reached without a widespread strike. It is regarded as a sign of management-labor statesmanship. If the avoidance of strikes is the major objective of policy, as well it may be, then this settlement is a mark of statesmanship.

The terms of the agreement are unrelated to a guaranteed annual wage which never was proposed by anyone except in the form of a slogan. What was proposed and has been accepted is a method of company addition to state compensation in the event of a layoff. Should business be good and cars be made in vast production and no layoffs occur, this agreement does not alter present conditions.

So far as the enormous companies are concerned, the additional cost of this plan will be absorbed in the price of the car and by economies of production, involving increasing automation which may result in decreasing new hiring. So far as smaller companies are concerned, they may have to go out of business if they cannot set up the reserves. On the other hand, a large number of smaller companies have become relegated to the position of suppliers to the large companies upon whom they have become financially dependent. In effect, they are sub-contractors and must follow the leadership of the larger companies as to policy. This is strictly a cartel operation, no matter what the lawyers call it, and reduces competition which is the heart of the capitalist system.

When there are only three producing companies in the automobile industry, as well may happen now, the element of competition is lessened because competition is only real when small companies are crowding the heels of the large companies. Its object is to keep prices down.

The automobile industry has thus far not discovered the law of diminishing returns and therefore can afford to be venturesome on the assumption that the American customer can absorb its share of new production. On the other hand, it is evident now that the used-car market is doing very badly. The used-car market is an important element in the price of cars because by the exchange of one-year and two-year old cars for new cars plus an additional payment, it is possible to sell large numbers of new cars at reasonable prices. When dealers, however, cannot dispose of used cars, they dislike taking in the old cars and find a sales resistance on account of price.

It used to be that large numbers of used cars were shipped out of the United States. Such American cars are now meeting competition from British and German cars some of which are really American-owned. Vauxhall and Ford in England and Opel in Germany are principally American-owned companies making good cars at lower prices than American cars. They are often smaller and less expensive to operate.

An American car is good for many more years than two and the public learned that during the war. The manufacturers responded to this knowledge by radical styling, thus making old cars to appear older than they really are. The public has responded positively to this change in taste and business has been good. But automobile prices are high, even for an inflationary period, and the question that arises is how much higher can they go. How much more can be put on the car to meet the cost of Reuther's victory? If it is little, the public will not mind and will say that it does not hurt and that it is less costly than prolonged unemployment. If it comes high, sales resistance is bound to rear its dreaded head. This then remains a question of price.

The average United States service station is open 100 hours a week.

Luxury Upholstery

The Detroit workingman, through the motor industry's agreement becomes a longer, wider, rarer model with white walls. Gone is the old-fashioned Model T laboring men with the boiling radiator, the loose bumpers and uncertainty on the hills. For the first time in history in any land the worker is equipped with 120 horsepower security, luxury upholstery, clear-vision windshields and what could be called the "wrap-around income." The "early-to-work and late-to-dinner" model, with the overhead sweat valves, built-in worries and frequent "flats" disappeared long ago. The 1955 Model Detroit workingman now comes de luxe with neither comfort nor security listed as an "extra."

He gets a pay envelope with the faster pickup, and the contentment that can be raised by pushbutton. The bumpers have been taken off the worker and put on management and stockholders. Every big industry knows it will be asked to follow suit, and many fear a setup in which the boss will soon be on relief. Many a corporation may be willing to settle for a guaranteed quiet room in the hospital for nervous disorders. One thing is crystal clear; the toiler is emancipated in a choice of color tones. The big question is whether the economic engineers have eliminated the "sagacity pump" in the belief that thrift is old-fashioned and takes up too much room needed for vacation luggage. It's great stuff as long as prosperity lasts, but the question remains: "How are you fixed for brakes when things hit the toboggan slide?" and "Who guarantees the guarantees when there is little left to guarantee?"

Once upon a time the workingman came home in hard times with a dejected look, a layoff notice and a regret that the wife would have to take in washing and put Junior to work in the livery stable. Now the layoff notice is scarcely distinguishable from a stock certificate and is accompanied by a "Don't let it bother you" note. The misses who used to break down and cry, "What'll become of us?" just goes ahead with the order for the new icebox and chips, "Oh, well, we can use this layoff at the bathing beach anyhow." They are calling the top Detroit union leader "Dave Reuther, king of the wild frontier." He wore no coonskin hat and fought no bears.

But he wrestled Lizzie, the Ford Brothers and Johnny Bugas. His men get almost full pay even when they go fishing. This is security with high-test gas added.

It's all very pretty, but thrift looks washed up. The umbrella for a rainy day gets further repudiation and even rain is compensated for by an agreement to supply sunshine at the cashier's window. What will happen when medium and small industries are hit. We just heard of a sign in a small shop window "GOING OUT OF BUSINESS. OBLIGED TO CLOSE FOR LACK OF $55,000.000 FUND."

It puzzles us why Ford workers refused the offer of Ford stock. They can't possibly have taken the Chevrolet production figures that seriously. Overheard at an industry leaders' convention: "What I am afraid of is that this country is going BACK TO SOCIALISM." . . . Walters graduating from a school teaching them the fine points of their trade passed their finals in a test at the Waldorf the other night. . . . One man flunked in elementary tomato soup serving and several will have to take over their senior year in correct check totalling. . . . We just heard of a small businessman who already finds expenses so high and labor troubles so humorous that he says he will settle for a guaranteed annual night's sleep.

Conditions In Red Labor Camps Appear Improved

Conditions in the labor-camps behind the Iron Curtain are somewhat better than they were. But workers outside the prison camps in Communist countries are being pushed around more than ever.

These seem to be the main conclusions of a 250-page report recently made to the United Nations by the International League for the Rights of Man. The report was compiled by the Mid-European Studies Center of the Free Europe Committee from government statements and testimony collected from some 3,000 refugees, some of them former inmates of prison camps.

There are indications, it appears, that the Communist satellite rulers may be able to abolish most of their forced labor camps within a couple of years. By that time they should have a forced labor system well established throughout their domain and there will be little sense in wasting fence wire on pens.

"Directed labor" is the way they describe the new system now being installed.

It includes such attractive features as "obligatory employment for all men and women," compulsory transfer of workers, "voluntary" overtime and uncompensated work, and "correctional" labor without confinement. That last wrinkle is a form of punishment under which workers convicted of one offense or another keep on working at their regular jobs but take a 25 or 50 percent cut in pay.

Thus it appears that under the dictatorship of the proletariat (the working class) the workers now work where they are told, when they are told, how they are told, and like it.

Or, if they don't like it, they can do the same thing for half the money.

Somehow I have my doubts that all this was the proletariat's own idea. It is hard to believe that workers behind the Iron Curtain are much different, basically, from workers anywhere else.

Given their druthers, I suspect that they'd prefer to toil when, where and how they please, and to do less work for more pay, even as you and I.

Unhappily for the lowly proletarian, such frivolous notions as these don't dovetail with the aims and aspirations of the muscle men in the Kremlin. And never will.

The only way to make an economic effort come out the way the Communist master minds want them to come out is to crack the whip over the working stiff—fix the objectives, lay out the work, assign the jobs and beat everybody over the back until the objectives are reached.

This is called efficiency, and in a myopic way it is. But it puts some nasty bruises on the human spirit, which is tender stuff not readily adaptable to cogwheel molds.

Our own system of getting work done may be less efficient in method and more scattergun as to objectives, but it's more fun.

It beats me how a Communist boring into an American labor union ever gets to first base.

The Universal Appeal of a title like "The Power of Positive Thinking" certainly has played a part in keeping Norman Vincent Peale's inspirational book on the very top of non-fiction best-seller lists for two solid years. Aspiring authors, therefore, are continually beseeching Dr. Peale to provide sure-fire titles for their immortal prose.

Dr. Peale counters with the story of the author who made a similar demand of J. M. Barrie. Barrie made no move to open the 1,500-page manuscript, but drawled, "Tell me, young man: are there any drums or any trumpets in your novel?" "Mr. Barrie," protested the author, "it's not that kind of a novel at all." "Perfect," beamed Barrie. "Call it 'Drums, No Trumpets'."

Two old classmates reeled down a college town street together after a reunion dinner. "Whassay," proposed one, "to joining me in a cup of coffee?" "Great idea," enthused the other. "You jump in first!"

Surveys show fewer people are now keeping written budgets.

Robert S. Allen Reports

Whitfield Appointment To AEC Due For Finish Fight

Washington, June 13 — It is a fight to the finish on that long-stalled appointment of Allen Whitfield to the Atomic Energy Commission.

The Iowan's selection for this prize job will not be withdrawn. President Eisenhower has flatly rejected such a Democratic "suggestion."

Senate Democrats secretly proposed the recall of Whitfield's name as a "compromise" to avert a stormy clash over his confirmation. It has been pending since March 10. The President has sent back word he is standing pat on Whitfield and will make every effort to get him approved by the Senate.

That means a bitter head-on scrap — unless the Democrats back down, which appears unlikely.

They have what they claim is a lot of "embarrassing" information about Whitfield. Curiously, some of it comes from Republican sources. An example is the detailed history published by the GOP Des Moines Register of the controversial handling of a banker's estate of which Whitfield was a trustee.

Agents of the Joint Congressional Atomic Commission have microfilmed the complete court record of this case.

The Democrats sounded out the White House about withdrawing Whitfield's appointment following a private Joint Committee meeting last week. It was the first consideration of the long-stalled issue in several months. Whitfield is not present. Various reports submitted by Committee probers and others were discussed.

Democratic Committeemen were sharply critical of Whitfield's selection. It was charged he was named at the behest of Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall and White House secretary Bernard Shanley.

At the Democrats' insistence it was decided to further investigate Whitfield's record as an Iowa lawyer, banker and Republican leader and fund-raiser. Charges have been made against him in the latter role. He has been directed to submit answers to them to the Committee.

Whitfield will also be personally interrogated by the Committee, but no date has been set for that. Senator Clinton Anderson (D., N. M.), chairman, has indicated no inclination to rush in this matter.

He is privately expressing confidence that the Democrats will vote solidly against Whitfield's confirmation. That would mean an adverse Joint Committee report which would be a difficult obstacle to overcome in the full Senate. The chamber rarely overrides a committee's findings on a major appointment. Significantly, Republican senators remained silent while the Democrats assailed Whitfield.

Meanwhile, the protracted delay has already cost him one AEC term.

Last March, the President gave Whitfield two appointments as Atomic Commissioner; one for an unexpired term running to the end of this month, and the second for a full five-year term, beginning July 1. There is no chance the Senate will act on the first appointment, and it will automatically lapse on June 30 without ever having been considered.

It is possible that may also happen on the full-term appointment. If the Democrats should stall it until Congress adjourns in August, then Whitfield would again be out of luck because that appointment would die. To put him on the AEC, he would have to be named all over again.

Note: Since the Atomic Commission's establishment in 1946, it has conducted more than 504,000 security investigations of job applicants and others having relations with the agency. Of this total, 494 have been denied clearance. Another 3,416 were not processed to conclusion for various reasons.

Big Success — The Navy's first atomic submarine is exceeding all expectations of what it could do. So outstandingly has the NAUTILUS performed in its numerous tests the past three months that it will soon undertake a dash across the Atlantic entirely submerged and at a speed in excess of 20 knots an hour.

Admiral Albert Mumma, head of the Bureau of Ships, disclosed this unannounced plan during a conference with a group of senators.

We are now convinced, "The NAUTILUS is capable of cruising around the world without surfacing, at more than 20 knots an hour," he told the senators. "What is the real significance of atomic propulsion in underwater craft?"

"That is," said Senator John Stennis (D., Miss.), "the NAUTILUS can do that without refueling."

"That is correct," replied Mumma. "She has sufficient fuel within her reactor to go around the world at more than 20 knots an hour without refueling."

"Have you any special trips under consideration?"

"A number, including one across the Atlantic in the near future we hope," said Mumma.

He also explained that the newly-launched SEA WOLF, the Navy's second atomic submarine, will use uranium for fuel. Of the five other atomic subs which have been authorized by Congress, at least two will utilize another type of nuclear fuel.

"We are trying them all," explained Mumma, "to perfect the most effective and economical ship."

Knepp's Study Of Poconos

—by H. G. Heller

Thomas Knepp, Stroudsburg High School teacher who was recently given a fellowship by officials of The Fund For The Advancement of Education, will concentrate his use of the fellowship on a study of the Poconos region.

Mr. Knepp, who was one of 11 in Pennsylvania to receive a fellowship, discloses the Pocono regional study in the application he submitted—one of 576 in 29 group applications.

The Stroudsburg High School teacher's plan would make it possible to include local history in the study of Pennsylvania History—a state requirement. He notes that very little, if any, usable material is available at present.

Because the history of this region is most interesting, students should know something about it, and Knepp plans pamphlets, or a booklet concerning Pocono History, with visual aids material. These same developments could be used by various junior historical societies.

Natural features of scientific interest are little known in the Poconos, Knepp points out. Much, he says, can be learned in classes in general science, biology, and geography about Pocono Mountains, the glacier that once covered this area and left its marks, a fossil bed, the plateau country, extensive forests and recreational area, and numerous other scientific features about which students and the general public know little.

The instructor notes that there is a wealth of material in the scientific realm that can be used to advantage to give local meaning to subjects being studied.

Knepp plans visual aids such as slide sets and/or film strips with explanatory notes or recorded commentary.

The same material can be duplicated and used by other schools in the Wayne-Pike-Monroe Pocono Mountains Counties.

Since the Poconos are Pennsylvania's vacationland—a BIG business with a major contribution to the economic life of the region—Knepp feels that students should fully understand the historical, scientific and recreational factors which make vacations possible here.

With that knowledge, he maintains, they will be interested in caring for and preserving these characteristics.

Miss Joyce Westbrook Is Bride Of C. R. Christman

Many friends and relatives gathered in the flower and candle decorated Presbyterian Church of the Mountain, Delaware Water Gap, at 3 p.m. Sunday when one of Water Gap's most highly esteemed young women was wed.

Miss Joyce Charlotte Westbrook, daughter of Mrs. M. Charlotte Westbrook and the late Robert V. Westbrook, became the bride of Charlton Robert Christman, son of Fred Christman and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Anzi Christman, with whom he resided, in Stroudsburg.

Rev. Luther E. Markin, pastor, officiated.

Before the ceremony James T. Anthony III, organist, played a medley of semi-classic love songs. Mrs. James T. Anthony III sang "Sweet Mystery of Life" and "L'Amour te Jour-L'Amour". The wedding march from Lohengrin by Wagner was played by the bride's father, Mr. Robert V. Westbrook, who was assisted by his brother, Mr. John Westbrook.

Miss Westbrook was charming in a gown of embroidered white nylon over baby blue taffeta, with white accessories. She carried a colonial bouquet.

Her sister, Mrs. John Austin, of East Stroudsburg, matron of honor, wore a gown of pink nylon with white accessories and also carried a colonial bouquet. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Robert P. Westbrook of East Stroudsburg.

The bride's mother and the bridegroom's grandmother both had white corsages, the bride's mother wearing an orchid nylon dress, and the bridegroom's grandmother, a print nylon.

The bridegroom's best man was Richard E. Phillips of Stroudsburg. The ushers were Jack Osborn, of Stroudsburg, and Paul Grundke, of Philadelphia.

The wedding reception was held in the church social room, where the bride cut the large wedding cake and fruit punch was served by Mrs. Elam Gray, Mrs. Clifford Hauser and Miss Mary Etta Gray.

The newlyweds left later for a wedding tour to an unannounced destination and on their return will reside at 87 Aster Lane, Levittown, Pa. Mrs. Christman will teach in the Ralph Waldo Emerson School; Mr. Christman will be with the Sears Store.

Both young people are graduates of Stroudsburg High School. Mrs. Christman also graduated from East Stroudsburg State Teachers College with a B. S. in Elementary Teaching. She was active in all high school and college activities; and in the latter was president of the Child Christian Education Group. She has taught in the Presbyterian Sunday School, is its secretary, and is a member of the church choir. Mr. Christman graduated from Eckels College in Philadelphia. He has served in the U. S. Army.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

You know how it goes. When you take off your ice skates in winter, you unconsciously step higher than need be. When you lift something that seems heavier than it is, you're likely to lift it as high as your head. When you're leaning into a gale wind and it suddenly shifts, you're likely to go flat on your face.

Well, I had much the same feeling over the weekend. No last minute touches to sew on graduation dresses. No frantic juggling of news deadlines, dinner at odd hours and graduation sessions. Nothing to do but routine things, with time in between just for sitting. But all the while there was the nagging feeling that there must be something I should be busy at.

Just getting used to the feeling, when here comes another week. Before we get into it, though, I'd like to tell you about the buffet table for the seniors party at Glen Brook after graduation. Gorgeous pink roses, and in between a punch bowl bubbling with what looked like pink champagne. It was very effective to look at, but certainly not to drink. It was moth balls and some kind of acid, and it was right spectacular.

Not spectacular, maybe, but certainly very impressive were all of the Children's Day exercises yesterday. Only one criticism I heard. Nowadays the children are so good that they aren't funny any more. Which is as it should be.

Mary Garris, J. Albertson Are Wedded

Miss Mary Eney Garris, daughter of Mrs. Walter Mader, of 70 Grand St., East Stroudsburg, and Allen Garris, of Delaware Water Gap, became the bride of John Eli Albertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Albertson, of Bushkill, at 4 p. m. Saturday before the candle altar of Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg.

The formal early Summer wedding was largely attended by relatives and friends of the young couple. Rev. William F. Wunder, Grace church pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The altar was graced with white gladioli. Miss Charlotte Herman, soprano, sang several nuptial arar prior to the wedding including "Because" and "O Promise Me." Her mother, Mrs. Anna Harman, presided at the console and played a background of quiet organ music during the wedding including "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Perfect Love."

The bride who was given in marriage by her father was attired in a floor length strapless gown with matching jacket of imported Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over slipper satin. Her bouffant skirt was inserted with lace. She wore a veil of imported French illusion which fell from a tiara of rhinestones and sequins. She carried a colonial bouquet of roses and carnations intermingled with baby's breath.

Mrs. Sherwood Clapper was matron-of-honor. She wore a blue strapless gown of net over taffeta and lace top with matching jacket and headband of pink net. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses, blue bachelor buttons and baby's breath.

Miss Sallie Ann Garris, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and was attired in pink strapless gown of net over taffeta and lace top with matching jacket and headband of pink net. Hers was a colonial bouquet of pink roses and blue bachelor buttons and baby's breath.

Miss Linda Clapper, daughter of the matron-of-honor, was flower girl. She wore a light blue net gown with lace trim and carried a miniature basket of rose petals which she strew in the bridal path to the altar.

Sherwood Clapper was best man. The ushers were Charles Garris, Jay Albertson Jr. and Harvey Garris. Henry Townsend served as acolyte.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue dotted swiss street length dress with white accessories and a corsage of red roses. The mother of the bridegroom selected a beige silk street length dress with black accessories. Her corsage was of tallsmann teasers.

Following the wedding a reception was held at DePue's, Bushkill, for 85 guests. The newlyweds left later on a brief honeymoon trip to the Adirondacks and Northern New York State. On their return, they will reside with the bride's parents until Fall. The newlyweds both attended

Dennis Keiper was a guest at the meeting.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Packing once again—but not for a vacation. We'll be leaving tomorrow, my son and I, for his annual visit to Johns Hopkins Hospital so the column will be missing from the newspaper until Saturday. A trip from here to Baltimore is quite a chore, incidentally—practically a full day of train travel. But Holt Wyckoff, Jack Kerlin and Bud Altman recently flew down in one hour in our store plane and made the return trip in 55 minutes. . . . Speaking of travel reminds me that I wouldn't budge from home these days without a reservation made through our Wyckoff Travel Bureau. Blanche Mackey's experience in Philadelphia was too rough. She descended upon the City of Brotherly Love with no place to rest a weary head but secure in the notion that there would be plenty of available rooms in a city of that size. What Blanche hadn't taken into consideration was people and their habit of holding conventions. After a taxi drive all around the town, they finally took pity on her at the YWCA and permitted her to have quarters, providing she remained two nights at least. Nothing, in my opinion, could be worse than the prospects of sleeping on a park bench—so take precaution before you pack your suitcases. A reservation will be made by our Travel Bureau at no extra cost to you. . . . I mentioned something like this in my column of the other day and about an hour after writing it the telephone rang. It was Art Barnes of the Record calling. "Seems I had said a Travel Bureau reservation would go far toward saving the traveller 'absorbent' costs. 'Didn't you mean exorbitant,' Art demanded. And I certainly did—so I was grateful that he knew what I was talking about even though I didn't. Of course, when it comes right down to it, any cost can be mighty 'absorbent' where one's cash is concerned. . . . Everyone in our lounge was talking Friday night about the delicious Red Snapper on our tea room menu, and about that wonderful strawberry pie. We employees do not have the opportunity to enjoy our store food half enough it seems to me, because Hazel Henning's crew is always so busy feeding the public. There's no place in town that can beat us for quality and tastiness at the money. . . . I've been meaning to mention for some time that Allen Roth's new Charcoal House on Route 611 is also a mighty attractive place. We were there several nights after the opening, and were greeted by Allen himself, as genial a host as he is a Wyckoff customer. I could tell you all about the unusual features and how delicious the chicken in the basket is—but I won't. Why not find out the most enjoyable way — for yourself? We've also tried Albino's new restaurant in the Price building on Washington street—and if you enjoy minestrone as much as I do, you'll agree that their's is about the finest you've ever eaten. To say nothing of the la sagne and pizza! . . . Ernie Michelfelder tells me the long playing Davy Crockett records have arrived in our music store. One side tells the story of Davy either at the Alamo, or during some other phase of his fascinating career. On the other side is the ballad, as I recall. Each record—and there are three—sells for 99c. . . . So long for now! See you soon!

Carry Flashlight To Inspect House

IF YOU'RE going house hunting, take a flashlight with you.

Many places in a house where inspection can be most revealing are poorly lighted and the prospective purchaser is under a severe handicap if a flashlight isn't part of his equipment.

A flashlight is particularly handy in inspecting the roof. This is true because a good way to get an idea of a roof's condition is to look at the underside of the roof deck. Search for wet spots, discoloration, and other evidence of water penetration.

$27,502.11 Sunday School Is Dedicated

BRODHEADSVILLE — Dedication services for the new $27,502.11 Sunday School addition and improvements at Zion Church were held yesterday.

Rev. Harold Ash, pastor of Fountain Hill Reformed Church in Bethlehem, was the main speaker. In his address, Rev. Ash used the parables of the mustard seed and the leavened bread as the basis for comments on the work done on the church.

He noted that there was a similarity between the meaning of the two stories and the new facilities at the church in that both extended their influence to a large number of individuals.

In showing the need for additional facilities for Christian education he also cited projected figures on population trends and emphasized the fact that the church addition would not be too large for future needs.

As a closing statement, Rev. Ash said: "A church that does not reach out will fade out."

Included in the new facilities at the church are four new Sunday School rooms. These rooms were built on to the back part of the church. There is also a new basement play school and kindergarten.

New Heating
Inside rest rooms were installed along with a new heating system, new carpeting for the main part of the church and other interior redecoration. Both the inside and the outside of the church building have been completely repainted and redecorated.

Shrubbery has been placed in front of the church. The entire driveway and parking area has been resurfaced.

In yesterday's services, Rev. Adan Bohner, pastor of the Reformed congregation and Rev. John B. Bergstresser, pastor of the Lutheran congregation, addressed the audience briefly, commending the parishioners for their work in raising funds to pay for the construction.

The senior and junior choirs of the church provided music under direction of Mrs. Frances Dorshimer and Mrs. Arlene McNett. Betty Fisher sang a solo, "Bless This House."

Mrs. Myrtle Rodenbach is organist for both congregations. Members of the finance committee, responsible for the fund-raising project, were Raymond Serfass and Edgar B. Hamn, co-chairmen; Charles H. Arnold, Charles Hoffmann, Luther Dorshimer, Carl E. Kresge, Mrs. Anna Snyder, Mrs. Mary Flory, Robert Altomose and Chester Stanowski.

Synthetic Food Predicted By U. N. Organization

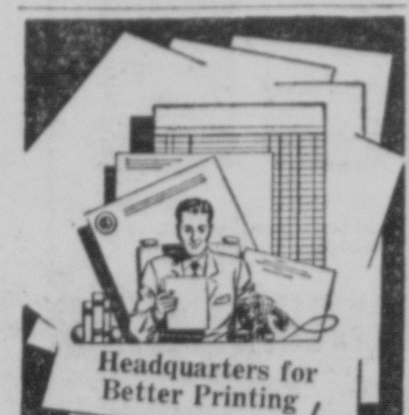

ROME, June 12 (U.P.) — Men of the future may dine off synthetic foods produced from inorganic matter by the energy of the sun.

Atomic research seems on the way to making that ultimately possible, the U. N. Food and Agriculture Organization council was told.

A nine-page report on how food production is being revolutionized by the atomic age was made by Philip V. Cardon of Logan, Utah, director general of the 71-nation organization.

He said the way to greater yields in animal and plant growth already has been shown, although radiation and radioactive isotopes apparently do not stimulate crop growth as was once believed.

Atomic research has uncovered better methods of controlling the pests and diseases which plague farmers and livestock growers, Cardon reported.

THE REV. ISRAEL YOST was elected recently as president of the board of directors of the Lehigh Valley Social Service Exchange at a meeting held in the Hotel Bethlehem. He succeeds Dr. Morris Greth who served as board president for two years and has completed six years of service as a director. Rev. Yost is pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, Phillipsburg.

William P. Wells, Stroudsburg, was elected as vice president, and Mrs. Donald Hoff, Northampton, re-elected as treasurer.

Donald C. Mack, president of Mack Hosiery Company, Easton; Mrs. J. W. Miranden, William Nixon, director of development, Muhlenberg College; George Parry, Bangor; and Mrs. Jeanette Sawyer, executive secretary of the YMCA, Allentown, were new directors who met with the board for the first time.

An orientation session for these newly-elected board members was held preceding the board meeting. At this time, slides were shown depicting the way in which the Exchange functions as a "communication" system for the health and welfare agencies of the community. Miss Ella Siegfried, executive director of the Exchange, explained how agencies clear with the Exchange when people come to them for service. The agencies are informed by the Exchange which other organizations have known the person or family. Then they can get together, if necessary, for joint planning and service to the people requesting help.

At the board session, appointments were made to the various standing committees and delegates were named to the organizations with which the Exchange is affiliated.

Named to the finance committee were Mrs. Donald Hoff, chairman; Mrs. Julius Friedman, Weston Kel-

RILEY

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

MANAGER Frank Radler and his Strouds had to battle two foes yesterday and managed to come out on top in each of the contests. Dark clouds, filled with plenty of rain, hung over Gordon Giffels Field all afternoon as the Strouds rallied in the seventh inning to gain a 6-3 verdict over Portland. If the rains, which waited until after the game, had fallen in the sixth or top of the seventh, Portland most likely would have been awarded a 3-2 victory. The Apollos would have been awarded the win providing it would have been too wet to renew play.

Bill Sommers was just as brilliant while pitching the unbeaten Strouds to their sixth straight Bi-State League victory as he was in hurling East Stroudsburg High to the District 11 Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association baseball championship. Bill fanned 17 batters and was particularly brilliant in the eighth and ninth when he struck out five of the last six batters to face him and forced the sixth to rap right back to the box. Sommers fanned the side in the eighth after a hit and two walks loaded the bases with nobody out.

Two major league clubs are interested in Sommers, who will do most of the pitching for the Strouds during the remainder of the campaign. Dick Gray, another important cog in East Stroudsburg High's championship struggle, has led off all three games in which he played with the Strouds with a base knock. Yesterday the steady second sacker hit safely on three of four trips to the plate. The lone out was a fly to left field. Sunday's crowd at Gordon Giffels Field was the largest to see a Sabbath game there in three years. The collection resulted in $25.

John Whitehead, catcher for the Strouds, draws more comment each game he works behind the plate without a breast protector. The hustle of the Strouds is the club's top appeal with the fans, plus the fact that the team is still undefeated. Wednesday's twilight encounter between the Strouds and Roseto is expected to be one of the best games of the Bi-State League campaign. The Strouds defeated Roseto earlier in the season, at Roseto, but it took 10 innings to turn the trick. The score was 11-8.

Bill "Bump" Metzgar, although charged with Portland's defeat yesterday, pitched good enough to win most games. The young southpaw has now pitched two good contests against the Strouds, only to drop both decisions. His support in the field left much to be desired yesterday. Randall "Bish" Ott, probably the oldest player in the Bi-State League, demonstrated that he can still hit as he drove in all of Portland's runs with a homer yesterday.

Maurice Schleicher, outstanding three-letter athlete at Slatington High School for the past three years, has had 50 college offers for his football ability. According to reports the big combination lineman-back has narrowed his choice to four, namely the University of Florida, Virginia, Northwestern and Notre Dame. The final choice should be made in the very near future. Roy Schleicher, who resigned as Slatington football coach during the past school year, is now job shopping.

According to a reliable source, Roy may join University of Virginia coaching staff for the coming season. Roy quit Slatington High for a planned business venture, but things didn't work out according to expectations. Maurice and Roy are brothers. Joe Battisto, former Stroudsburg High pitcher, star has been released from the Army. Last Friday's scheduled softball meeting never materialized. Paul "Doc" Lim, captain of this year's Stroudsburg High baseball squad, played every inning of every year on the varsity.

Lim also played three years of varsity football at Stroudsburg High and also had some basketball experience. He's headed for Ursinus in September. A ball must be struck by a thrown glove before a player can be penalized for throwing his glove during the course of a game, this scribe was informed yesterday by Umpire John "Ducky" DeFrank. Just proves that one learns something new every day. In one of the two instances mentioned in this column on Saturday, the ball was hit by the glove, but the player still wasn't penalized.

Steve Marciw, a strong Palmetton High sports fan now located at Pocono Gardens Lodge, returned from a fishing trip to Canada yesterday with Russ Alberts, Marshalls Creek. They really hit the jack-pot in perch and Walleyed pike.

Strouds Turn Portland Into Sixth League Victim, 6-3

Sommers Fans 17 In Debut

THREE RUNS in the bottom of the seventh enabled the Strouds to stretch their winning streak to six straight in the Bi-State League yesterday as the baseball pupils of Manager Frank Radler came up with a 6-3 verdict over Portland, at Gordon Giffels Field.

Bill Sommers made his Bi-State debut a winning performance as he fanned 17 batters, walked six and gave up only five hits. His mates overcame a 3-2 deficit with three tallies in the seventh and the young right hander was the boss down the home stretch.

The Strouds gave the East Stroudsburg hurler a working margin in the first inning when the home team reached Bill "Bump" Metzgar for a pair of unearned runs.

After Ron "Super" Phillips went down on a pop fly, Paul "Doc" Lim was safe on an error by Rodney Miller and then stole second base. Dave Nevil drew a life on George Metzgar's error at second and Lim scored. Randy Morris went down on strikes, but Dick Gray lined a single to right to admit Nevil with the second run. Danny Eppley was retired on strikes to end the inning.

All was quiet until the third when Metzgar walked and went to second two outs later when Ronnie Stopp walked. Randall "Bish" Ott, power hitting veteran, lined a home run into the bleachers in left center field to give the Apollos a 3-2 advantage.

Portland maintained the advantage as a storm threatened to break at any moment, until the Strouds rallied to protect their undefeated record in the seventh.

John Whitehead fanned to open the inning, but Harold Freeman singled to right center and Sommers sent the center fielder across the plate with a single, after Freeman had advanced to second on a wild pitch. Sommers advanced to third on a wild relay to the plate. Phillips lined a single to right and Sommers crossed the plate to put the Strouds in front for keeps. Lim drilled a perfect hit and run single through shortstop and Phillips went to second. Nevil dropped a single into left field, sending Phillips to third. The Strouds' third sacker continued home on a wild throw to the far turn, but Lim was cut down at third on the play and Morris went down on strikes to end the upheaval.

Tight Pitching
Sommers got into hot water in the eighth when Ronnie Stopp and Ott singled and Tucker walked to fill the racks. But the youngster who led East Stroudsburg High to the District 11 baseball title calmly fanned Ronnie Newbaker, Bob Egbert and Don Stopp to kill the threat, while Radler warmed up on the sidelines for a relief mound stint.

The Strouds came up with an insurance run in the bottom of the eighth when Gray opened with his third hit of the game, a double to right center. Gray hopped over to third on an infield relay by Eppley and scored on a squeeze bunt by Whitehead.

Sommers proved he still had his stuff in the ninth when Bill Metzgar hit back to the box, and Miller and Harry Bellis went down on strikes to end the contest.

Metzgar gave up only nine hits and demonstrated perfect control while striking out eight and issuing no walks. The loss was the second of the season at the hands of the Strouds for the Stroudsburg High graduate.

Giants Divide With Cardinals

NEW YORK, June 12 (AP)—Relief pitcher Paul LaPalme capped a brilliant seven-inning hurling chore today with a 13th inning double that drove in the winning run as the St. Louis Cardinals nipped New York 6-5 after the Giants had won the opener of the doubleheader 8-3 behind Johnny Antonelli.

LaPalme took over in the seventh after Stan Musial's two-run homer off Sal Maglie in the top of the inning had tied the score at 5-5 and handcuffed the Giants with two harmless singles the rest of the way. It was the veteran left-hander's second victory, both over the Giants.

CONGRATULATIONS — Randall "Bish" Ott, Portland center fielder, is pictured above receiving congratulations from Manager LeRoy "Cheesy" Egbert, as he rounds third base after pounding a home run into the left field bleachers against the Strouds yesterday. The homer, hit in the third inning, came with two runners on base, but the Strouds went on to win, 6-3.

'Cavalier Caravan' Reaches $220.60 Mark In Donations

"CAVALIER CARAVAN," a fund by which the East Stroudsburg baseball team will journey to Brooklyn on Thursday, June 30, to see the Dodgers and Giants in action, sky-rocketed to $220.60 over the weekend.

A collection was taken at Saturday's East Stroudsburg High School Alumni Banquet and $50 was realized. In addition to this figure other weekend donations included Dr. John P. Lim, $10; Myron Ehrlich, five dollars; Robert M. Weiglox, five dollars, and Elmer "Lefty" Goucher, two dollars.

Saylorsburg, currently leading the Pocono Mountains League pennant race, became the first baseball team to donate when Gilbert "Gib" Bachman, team manager, announced that the club would give $10.

In addition to the game, members of the District 11 championship baseball club will meet some of the Dodgers and will also be treated to dinner.

Largest Crowd Of Campaign Watches Yankees Drop Pair

CLEVELAND, June 12 (AP)—The Cleveland Indians swept a damp doubleheader from the New York Yankees 10-2 and 7-3 today before a crowd of 69,532, largest of the season. The double victory moved the third-place Indians to within three and a half games of the league-leading Yankees, now only two and a half ahead of the Chicago White Sox who also won two today.

The Tribe took the series from the Yankees, three games to one. Today's crowd swelled the attendance total for the series to 127,559. Showers fell during both games.

Homers contributed to both Indians victories. The Indians broke a 3-3 tie with four runs off Whitey Ford in the seventh inning of the second game, giving Bob Lemon his eighth win against five defeats.

Two of the runs came on a homer by Vic Wertz, who hit one home run in each of the last three games against the Yankees. Gil McDougald opened the second game with a homer. Although the Yankees hit Lemon in almost every inning they were able to score only single runs in three innings.

In the ninth, after Lemon had loaded the bases on two walks and a hit batsman, Manager Al Lopez sent Mike Garcia to the mound. Garcia fanned Hank Bauer and got pinch-hitter Bill Skowron on an outfield fly to end the game.

The Indians, who hit four homers yesterday to win 7-6, opened up on Bob Turley in the sixth inning of the first game.

Homers by Larry Doby and Wertz, a double by Hegan, a single by Dave Pope, and a walk to Al Rosen added up to four runs in the sixth.

Chisox Down Senators Twice

CHICAGO, June 12 (AP)—Third-inning home runs by Bob Nieman and Bob Kennedy, the former's with the bases full, gave the Chicago White Sox an 8-4 victory with a sweep of a doubleheader with the Washington Senators today. The Sox won the opener, 3-0, on an unearned run as Billy Pierce bested Bob Porterfield in a pitching duel.

Seven Runs
The home runs enabled the Sox to fashion a seven-run inning to give rookie right-hander Dick Donovan his seventh triumph of the year. Nieman's drive came off starter Johnny Schmitz and Kennedy's with a man on base against reliever Bob Chakales.

Nettie Fox, diminutive Chicago second baseman, made two hits in the first game to raise his major league lifetime total to 1,000. He added one more in the nightcap.

Dodgers Split With Cubs

BROOKLYN, June 12 (AP)—Carl Furillo and Gil Hodges drove in five runs between them to lead the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 6-2 second game victory after a split with Chicago today after the Cubs had snapped Doc Newcombe's 10-game winning streak in the opener enroute to a 9-5 triumph.

Six Homers
The Dodgers, leading 3-2 in the seventh inning of the nightcap, broke the game wide open with three more runs before a triple play halted them. With the bases full and nobody out, rookie John Anderson replaced Hal Jeffcoat and got Roy Campanella to hit a sharp grounder to third. Randy Jackson's throw forced Sandy Amoros at the plate and Campanella was doubled at first. When Jackie Robinson tried to score from second, he also was thrown out at the plate. De Fondy to Harry Chitt.

Six home runs featured the opener, each club getting three. Chitt hit one for the Cubs with two mates aboard in the fourth to climax a 6-run inning. Homers by Jackson and Fondy finished Newcombe off in the sixth to hang the first defeat upon the big righthander.

Son Defeats Father In Shoot

BANGOR — Son defeated father here in the second annual Championship Trophy Blue Rock Shoot, sponsored by the Blue Mountain Rod and Gun Club, yesterday when Bill Junglas, Easton, defeated Joe Junglas, also of Easton, 71-69.

The young Junglas shot rounds of 23-24-24 for a final score of 71 out of 75. Father came up with rounds of 24-24-21 for 69. All shooters worked from 16 feet in the first two rounds, but the third round was on a handicap basis, some shooting from different distances.

Lakers Blank Kunkletown Two Markers In Sixth Decide Issue

KUNKLETOWN — Saylorsburg tightened its hold on first place in the Pocono Mountains Baseball League yesterday with a 2-0 decision over Kunkletown, here on the winning club's home grounds.

Bob Bonser limited the hard hitting Kunkletown contingent to five safeties, while Asher Smith was touched for nine safeties and was kept in hot water all day as his mates committed seven errors in the field.

Bonser and Smith were the masters through the first five innings, but the visiting Lakers plated both their runs in the top of the sixth and accounted for their sixth victory in seven circuit outings.

Don Sweda opened the frame by drawing a life on a two-base error by Art Smith. Jack Sommers drilled a ground-rule double over the right field fence to score Sweda. Tom Blake popped out, but George Hill singled to right to tally Sommers with the final run.

Double Plays
Two Kunkletown double plays, both from Sterling Scheller to Sherwood Smith, broke up other Saylorsburg threats.

Kunkletown threatened in the ninth when Dick Serfass and "Red" Kregge walked, with one out. But, Sterling Scheller bounced into a double play, Jack Newell to Lloyd Brown to Dick Schaller to end the contest.

Pocono Playhouse Opens Ninth Season With Professional Production Of 'King Of Hearts'

By Leonard Randolph
MOUNTAINHOME — Pocono Playhouse opened its ninth season Friday night with a thoroughly professional production of "King of Hearts", a comedy by Jean Kerr and Eleanor Brook which has more witty lines than a gagwriters' clambake.

The cast was perfect. If there are any reservations to be made critically about the production they must be directed at the play Mrs. Kerr and Mrs. Brook have written. Their story is about an egomaniac named Larry Larkin who writes and draws a comic strip called "Snips" in which the principal characters are a wholesome little boy (Snips) and a precious dog named "Runtz."

Larkin is probably the most mentally malodorous creature in modern English. The authors have made him so thoroughly narcissistic in his attitudes and mouthings that he appears frequently to be wearing a cardboard sign saying "Villain" when, by rights, the sign (as in radio and television) should merely read "Laugh!"

Author—Author!

The cartoonist's ego might be a trifle more digestible if the two ladies in charge of things had given us someone else in the play to like by contrast. Unfortunately, the three remaining characters, who occupy most of the play's time are only slightly less undesirable: there is Dunreath Henry, a charming girl who takes three acts to see through the flimsy cellophane of Larkin's exterior; Francis X. Dignam, a talented ghost-cartoonist, who describes himself as a "Self-made mouse"; and Norman Taylor, a precocious child who spends much of his time in a tepee from which come occasional puffs of smoke.

Larkin, of course, gets his comeuppance in the last minutes of the play, the worm (Dignan) turns and beauty (Dunreath) at last sees the difference between the thorn and the rose. Without excellent actors, "King of Hearts" would remain just what Mrs. Kerr and Mrs. Brooke have written—a surface view of an artificial man surrounded by piddling people.

Donald Cook is brilliant as the cartoonist. There is faultless technique in his portrayal, ranging from a voice which seems at all times to be addressing no one but the man who is using it to a walk so perfect in its self-importance that it seems to have its own built-in, upright analyst's couch. Without strong actors in supporting roles, "King" could easily be a one-man show, falling flat on its ultra-sophisticated face when Cook is offstage. Fortunately, the two remaining key roles are beautifully played. Biff McGuire gives just the right amount of believability to Francis X. Dignam. McGuire's hesitant brusqueness fills in the human emo-

Thankless Role

Gaye Jordan's characterization of Dunreath is little short of a miracle. This, it seems to me, is by far the most thankless role in the script—hovering midway between glibly stupidity and shallow sophistication. Miss Jordan—whose face, eyes and voice, physical movements and gracefulness are charming music to hear and behold—makes Dunreath a delight.

The other parts are also well-played. I liked especially Hilda Haynes, from the New York cast as Jennella, the maid; Del Tenney as Mr. Hobart; Corydon Erickson and Stuart Kreck, as the two children and a Stroudsburg dog named Basquerie Beau Jacques who, to my knowledge, had never acted before. Beau Jacques has the physical dimensions and the color of a polar bear and he played his part with great good humor.

Tex Ballou is back again this year as scenic designer. His set for "King of Hearts" is stage design at its best.

Mrs. Kerr and Mrs. Brooke have written a series of riotously funny lines. Cook, McGuire, Miss Jordan, the director and Ballou have provided a play to go with the lines with their genuine, im-
